

THE ELITE COALITION FOR AFRICA (TECA)

We Change the World...One Project at a Time

OUR PILOT PROJECTS

THE COGUIAPRES COOPERATIVE

A group of young entrepreneurs created a palm oil production cooperative, employing 1,000 women in Lower Guinea. Proceeds from this co-op are quickly improving the living conditions of villagers in Kamsar.

TECA is working to expand the scope, reach, and impact of this environmentally-conscious business, helping it move strategically into the $82 billion global palm oil market.

THE MOBILE SOLAR ENERGY PROJECT

Gaining access to electricity is truly life-changing for off-grid populations. With energy comes opportunity. New business enterprises become possible within the community—phone charging stations, transportation, and small mercantiles, for example.

TECA is working with a team of entrepreneurs who've developed a way to bring renewable energy to remote locations of Africa. We need funding to launch this exciting project.

What role can we play in Africa's economic development?

Africa's real challenge is a people problem.

Sub-Saharan Africa represents one of the world's fastest growing demographics and billions of dollars in industry potential. Our goal is to unlock that potential in a way that benefits both investors and African communities.

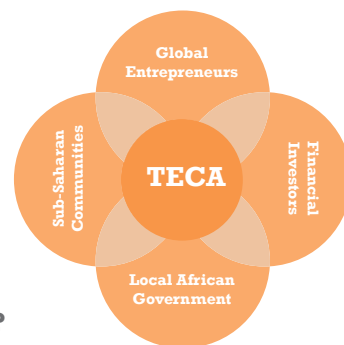

First, we must address the "people problem": skilled professionals are scarce, and local authorities are limited in both capacity and capability. In fact, governance systems often hinder the startup process rather than help.

Join TECA and become part of the solution.

TECA is working to solve these problems. We deploy skilled resources on-site. We build go-to-market strategies that anticipate the challenges of doing business in Africa. Most importantly, we train and advise every step of the way, setting the people of sub-Saharan Africa on the path toward long-term prosperity.

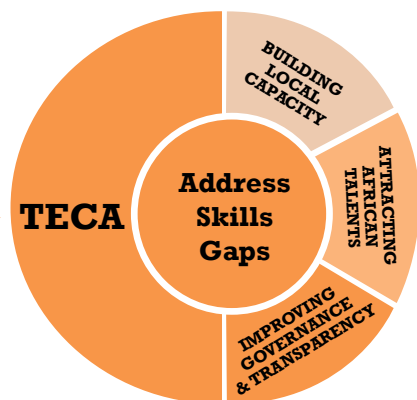

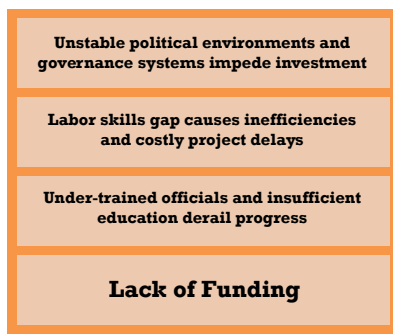

What does TECA do?

TECA brings together highly skilled entrepreneurs and professionals from across the globe, African leaders, and critical local resources to develop inclusive and sustainable business projects in sub-Saharan Africa.

How do we ease the barriers to business opportunity?

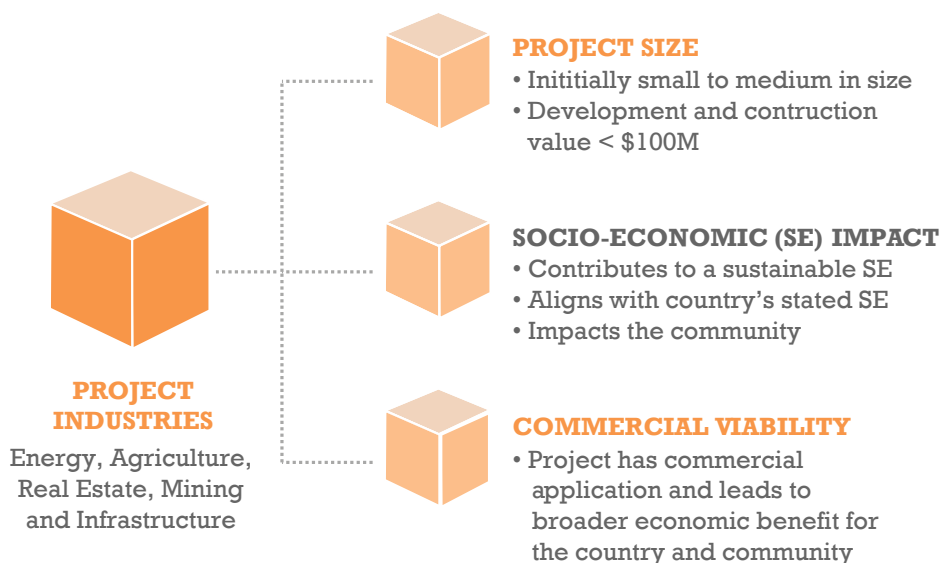

ROADBLOCKS

TECA is committed to identifying local, commercially viable projects and seeing them through, from funding to delivery. We make it happen by:

- a relentless focus on upskilling people
- taking a hands-on approach, with experienced advisor teams carrying out our project delivery strategies
- building relationships with local authorities and communities
- leveraging the incredible talent pool of highly experienced and educated African professionals around the world

Our Targeted Projects:

TOGETHER
MAKE IT HAPPEN.”

TECA | Make It Happen:

The Elite Coalition for Africa [TECA] is a non-profit talent pool of skilled Africans dedicated to sustainable economic development in sub-Saharan Africa.

Our Mission is to act as the key enabler in the design, financing, and timely implementation of critical projects in Energy, Mining, Agriculture, Infrastructure, and Real Estate.

Please join us in our efforts to create future leaders, skilled workforces, and a favorable business climate for generations to come.
